
CO-DEVELOPMENT CELL FOR ENTREPRENEURS

ISSUE: Building on entrepreneurship

ITINERARY 6A

Date: Tuesday, September 10, 2013

Location: Marbleton Community Centre

PROMOTERS

Simon Bhérer, CLD Haut-Saint-François | E-mail: sbherer.cld@hsfqc.ca

Presentation of the issue:

Despite strong business plans, start-up companies are facing a changing environment within their operational activities. They must therefore be alert and able to adapt to those changes. In addition, some entrepreneurs feel isolated; it is often the case for self-employed workers based in their own home.

Presentation of the project:

The Haut-Saint-François local development center (CLD) is an organization dedicated to socio-economic development. One of its main objectives is to support the businesses through consulting services, and to provide them with financing solutions.

The project presented is a pilot on co-development. It entails the creation of the first co-development cell for the Haut-Saint-François entrepreneurs. The goal is to record and assess the impacts of such an approach. We also want to know if the entrepreneurs enjoy participating into it, and if this method gives them practical solutions to resolve some of their problems.

RESEARCHERS

Stéphane Longval, organizational psychologist | E-mail: stephanelongval@sympatico.ca

Michel Desjardins, Association québécoise du codéveloppement professionnel | E-mail: micheldesjardins22@videotron.ca

For reasons beyond our control, the researchers' presentation summaries could not be documented.